

A Scandalous Relationship:

Catholic Colleges and Planned Parenthood

A Special Investigative Report

April 11, 2011

Updated May 5, 2011

9415 West Street
Manassas, Virginia 20110

Introduction and Methodology

For 18 years, The Cardinal Newman Society has exposed scandalous activity at many Catholic colleges and universities. Although today we are beginning to see some movement toward a renewal of Catholic identity in Catholic higher education, serious problems remain.

Current public attention to Planned Parenthood—the largest abortion provider in the United States, responsible for extensive promotion and distribution of contraceptives—prompted us to perform a simple, public search of the websites of Catholic colleges and universities.

Despite the Catholic Church’s unambiguous teaching on abortion and contraception, we discovered referrals to Planned Parenthood for “health” services, internships and fellowships with Planned Parenthood, seemingly boastful disclosures of employees’ past work with Planned Parenthood, and other ties to this and other “pro-choice” organizations. The problems are spread across dozens of institutions, with occasional concentrations at highly secularized institutions like Georgetown University and Seattle University, two leading Jesuit institutions.

What is publicized on the Internet often indicates more extensive concerns hidden from public view, so while the information contained this report is shocking and scandalous, it is only based on a rudimentary search of college websites and likely does not capture all ties to Planned Parenthood at Catholic colleges and universities.

If one considers—from a faithfully Catholic perspective—the fact that Planned Parenthood is the largest abortion provider in the United States and a leading contributor to what Pope John Paul II labeled a “culture of death,” any relationship to Planned Parenthood or those who have worked for such an organization is simply unacceptable. In no way can the work of Planned Parenthood be considered compatible with the mission of Catholic higher education or the moral teachings of the Catholic Church.

Furthermore, any relationship to Planned Parenthood endangers students who may develop a sense of comfort with an organization that destroys innocent lives, ruins souls and plays a leading role in the demise of American culture. A Catholic educator who cares for the wellbeing of students would do everything possible to dissuade a student from entering the doors of a Planned Parenthood clinic. Nothing good can come of it.

Finally, the brazen manner in which Catholic colleges and universities are publicly disclosing—even proudly touting—their ties or the ties of their employees, students and alumni to Planned Parenthood is shocking. There appears to be a pervasive attitude toward Planned Parenthood that regards the abortion and contraceptive agency as benign. This attitude is simply inconsistent with a genuine Catholic sensibility.

We urge Catholic colleges and universities to embrace a no-tolerance position for any relationship with Planned Parenthood—including disqualifying candidates for teaching positions with previous experience working with or for pro-abortion organizations.

There are matters of Catholic identity which require discernment and which may not point to simple solutions. There is no such nuance here—Planned Parenthood is a serious danger to the health, lives and souls of innocent students. There is no place for Planned Parenthood on a Catholic campus.

Counseling & Medical Referrals

A program published by the Theatre School at DePaul University (IL) for a February 2004 performance of The Wrestling Season, a play about sexual assault, included a referral “for help or information” to Planned Parenthood in Chicago. The program advised, “This is a good place to call if you need information about birth control, safer sex or the morning after pill.”

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/performance/04TGWrestlingSeason.pdf>

The Edgewood College (WI) Health Service offers a “sexual health” page that refers students to Planned Parenthood of Wisconsin for “confidential reproductive health and family planning services including pregnancy testing, contraceptive supplies.” The site also refers students to an “emergency contraception” hotline and informs students, “Plan B is available at pharmacies/stores staffed by a licensed Pharmacist. To buy Plan B, you must present identification showing proof that you are at least 18 years old. It is available to both women and men.”

<http://my.edgewood.edu/sites/services/hth/Shared%20Documents/HIV,%20STI%20and%20Sexual%20Health%20Information.aspx>

The faculty handbook for the Women’s Studies Program at Loyola University Chicago (IL) dated Fall 2005, lists “Resources in and around Chicago” including: “Planned Parenthood/Chicago provides reproductive health services, especially for those who do not have adequate resources in settings which preserve and protect the privacy, dignity, and essential rights of the individual; provides education which ensures an understanding of sexuality and its implications for the individual, the family, and society; and initiates, advocates, and causes to be implemented, public and private policies which guarantee reproductive self determination and the services and resources necessary to ensure it.”

http://www.luc.edu/womenstudies/pdfs/facultyhandbook_fall05.pdf

Update May 2, 2011: Links to websites about “Sex” and mentions of Planned Parenthood and SmarterSex.org have been removed from this webpage.

The Counseling Center at Marian University (WI) offers links to websites about “Sex” including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America and SmarterSex.org.

<http://www.marianuniversity.edu/counseling/>

Update May 2, 2011: Document removed from site.

The website of Marquette University Law School (WI) includes a “Milwaukee Survival Guide,” which recommends “services” including Planned Parenthood and the National Organization for Women.

<http://law.marquette.edu/s3/site/images/current/orientation/pdfs/survivalGuide.pdf>

Update May 5, 2011: Document also appears here http://www.msmc.la.edu/PDFFiles/CPS/Referrals_pregnancy%20website.pdf.

The Counseling and Psychological Services at Mount St. Mary's College (CA) offers a list of "Pregnancy and Parent Resources" including the Santa Monica Center of Planned Parenthood and the Los Angeles Center of Planned Parenthood, noting that they provide "pregnancy options education," "information on pregnancy planning" and "birth control." Also recommended is Catholics for Choice, which "helps Catholic women to make thoughtful decisions through respected publications that address Catholic doctrine and the moral and ethical issues involved in reproductive health decisions." The list recommends the Pregnancy Options website, which asks "Is this the right time for me to bring a new life into the world through my body?" and "Abortion: Which method is right for me?" The list also recommends sites for "family planning" help.

Update May 5, 2011: This document is no longer at this location.

http://www.msmc.la.edu/PDFFiles/CPS/Referrals_pregnancy2.pdf

Update May 2, 2011: Planned Parenthood is no longer mentioned on this webpage.

In the Student Life section of the website for Rockhurst University (MO), the site presents a vision for "wellness": "With a spirit of collaboration, the various offices seek to guide the development, implementation and evaluation of wellness programs at Rockhurst University in line with the Jesuit mission." Among the recommended activities is "Speaker from Planned Parenthood on sex education."

<http://www.rockhurst.edu/studentlife/wellness/index.asp>

Counseling and Psychological Services at Seattle University (WA) points students to various resources for "sexual health" including Planned Parenthood. (After complaints from The Cardinal Newman Society, Students for Life of America and 14 other organizations in March 2011, the link to Planned Parenthood's website has been broken but the listing is not removed.)

<http://www.seattleu.edu/caps/inner.aspx?id=18966>

The Office for Wellness and Health Promotion at Seattle University (WA), sponsors the Peer Health Action Team (PHAT), which includes students who teach their peers about issues including "sexual health." One of the PHAT students featured on the University website says, "I got to be on the Teen Council for Planned Parenthood in high school and loved it."

<http://www.seattleu.edu/HealthPromotion/Inner.aspx?id=18896>

Health Promotion Services at the University of San Francisco (CA) provides students information on vaginal yeast infections, including a referral to the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

http://www.usfca.edu/uploadedFiles/Destinations/Offices_and_Services/HPS/PDF_files/vaginal-yeast-infections.pdf

Internships & Fellowships

The Student Development and Counseling Center at Assumption College (MA) recruited students in 2007 for summer internships with the Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts.

http://www1.assumption.edu/stulife/StuDev/jobs/listings_internships.php

Planned Parenthood of Kentucky recruited Bellarmino University (KY) students at the October 2008 “Bellarmino Non-Profit Volunteer and Internship Fair,” sponsored by the University’s Career Center.

<http://www.bellarmino.edu/documents/StudentAffairs/Fall2008RecruitingDates.doc>

A Boston College (MA) sociology course providing credit for student internships has promoted placements at the Planned Parenthood League of Greater Boston. The “internship list” on the College’s website—which was revised in December 2009—notes that the “last intern there was responsible for finding and distributing articles related to reproductive rights issues.”

<https://www2.bc.edu/~jbw/documents/documents/INTERNLIST1209.doc>

The Department of Psychology at the Dominican University of California (CA) lists undergraduate field placements under the title “Strategic Initiatives and Partnerships,” including Planned Parenthood. On the web page of Gail Matthews, a tenured professor of psychology at Dominican University of California (CA) who is identified as teaching the Psychology Department’s field placement course, is a link to a “short list of field placements” including Planned Parenthood and another link to “field placement sites” including Planned Parenthood.

<http://www.dominican.edu/academics/ahss/psych/partnerships.html>

<http://www.dominican.edu/academics/ahss/psych/faculty/fulltime/gailmatthews/FPSitesshortlist.doc>

<http://www.dominican.edu/academics/ahss/psych/faculty/fulltime/gailmatthews/GMFieldPlaceBusinesses.pdf>

The Fall 2005 issue of Outreach, published by the Women’s Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program at Georgetown University Law Center (DC), highlighted 2005-06 fellows including a woman who “proudly” marched in the pro-abortion March for Women’s Lives in 2004. The newsletter states, “For her Fellowship year, Beth will continue to pursue her strong commitment to women’s reproductive rights with the Litigation Department of Planned Parenthood Federation of America.”

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/documents/2005FallNewsletter.pdf>

The Fall 2006-Winter 2007 issue of Outreach, published by the Women’s Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program at Georgetown University Law Center (DC), highlighted 2006-07 fellows including a woman whose fellowship was with the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. The newsletter noted that while a Georgetown student, the woman interned for the ACLU Reproductive Freedom Project. The woman’s fellowship was also featured in the Summer 2007 issue of Outreach, which reported that she was working in the Public Policy Law and Litigation Department of Planned Parenthood. One of her major projects was working on an employment discrimination case in which the plaintiff sought coverage for prescription contraceptives in an employer's health insurance plan.

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/documents/FallWinter2006.pdf>

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/documents/WLPPFPNewsletterSummer2007.pdf>

The Fall 2007-Winter 2008 issue of Outreach, published by the Women's Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program at Georgetown University Law Center (DC), highlighted 2007-08 fellows including a woman whose fellowship was with the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. The newsletter notes that she "helped start a Law Students for Choice chapter" and interned at the pro-abortion National Women's Law Center and the National Abortion Federation while a student at Georgetown Law.

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/documents/WLPPFPNewsletterFall-Winter08.pdf>

The Fall 2008-Winter 2009 issue of Outreach, published by the Women's Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program at Georgetown University Law Center (DC), highlighted 2008-09 fellows including a woman who previously worked for the Planned Parenthood Association of South Africa and a "Legal Advocates for Women Fellow" with a fellowship at the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. The latter woman is also featured on the website of the Fellowship Program. "Through her work with the legal and litigation department at Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Meredith helped prepare a legal response for the possibility of a very restrictive ban on reproductive health services via a state-level referendum. Meredith was intensively involved in researching the relevant legal issues and meeting with many attorneys working on the issue, as well as obtaining testimonials from women who opposed such bans based upon their personal experiences. Meredith was also responsible for overseeing the legal and litigation department's submissions to PPFA's 'Now What' newsletter, which is sent to affiliates, other offices, and organizations. For the newsletter, Meredith worked with her colleagues to prepare concise overviews of any news stories on interesting cases involving reproductive rights and education. Meredith was also given the responsibility of detailing her office's activities for PPFA's end of year wrap up book. In December, the Department of Health and Human Services published the final rule on 'Ensuring that Department of HHS Funds Do Not Support Coercive or Discriminatory Policies or Practices in Violation of Federal Law.' PPFA had previously submitted comments on the HHS proposed rule in September, Meredith and her colleagues were waiting to see if the final rule incorporated any of the suggested changes or comments. Meredith researched various issues relating to potential harm to PPFA and its affiliates that may have been caused by the rule, as well as how the rule addresses other matters." The same description appeared in the Summer 2009 issue of Outreach.

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/News/documents/WLPPFPWinter09.pdf>

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/USProgram/Alumni/2002-03/MeredithAsay.html>

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/News/documents/WLPPFPsummer09.pdf>

The Fall 2009-Winter 2010 issue of Outreach, published by the Women's Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program at Georgetown University Law Center (DC), highlighted 2009-2010

fellows including a graduate of Gonzaga University (WA) who volunteered at Planned Parenthood while a student there. In addition to highlighting that experience, the newsletter touted her membership in the National Organization for Women and the Planned Parenthood Action Group.

http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/News/documents/WLPPFP_FallWinter_2010.pdf

The Office of Public Interest and Community Service at Georgetown University Law Center (DC) lists past “Georgetown Public Interest Fellowship Recipients” including fellows who worked for the Planned Parenthood Federation of America (2008), the National Abortion and Reproductive Rights Action League (2001), and the National Women’s Law Center (1991, 1992, 1993, 2004, 2006 and 2009).

http://www.law.georgetown.edu/opics/fellowships/fell_recipients.html

The Office of Public Interest and Community Service at Georgetown University Law Center (DC) lists Summer 2005 fellows in the Georgetown/Equal Justice Foundation (EJF) Summer Fellowship Program, including students who worked for the Planned Parenthood Federation of America and the Center for Reproductive Rights.

http://www.law.georgetown.edu/opics/ejf_pastrecipients.html

The Office of Public Interest and Community Service at Georgetown University Law Center (DC) lists “affiliated agencies” to the 2009 D.C. Bar Pro Bono Fellowship Program, including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. The list states, “The Fellow will work within the Public Policy Litigation & Law (‘Litigation & Law’) department of the Public Policy Division of PPFA. Litigation & Law is responsible for representing PPFA and Planned Parenthood affiliates nationwide by bringing legal challenges to attempts to restrict access to reproductive health care both in state and federal court, advising PPFA and Planned Parenthood affiliates around the country about the legal issues raised by such attempts, and assisting with PPFA’s and its affiliates’ efforts to influence state and federal legislation in order to improve access to women’s health services.”

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/opics/documents/AgencyDescriptionsMarch2009.doc>

Update May 2, 2011: Page removed from site.

The website of Dr. Jeannetta Williams, Assistant Professor of Psychology in the School of Behavioral and Social Sciences at St. Edward’s University (TX), includes an “Internship Bulletin Board” with local placement sites including Planned Parenthood.

http://myweb.stedwards.edu/jeannetw/Internship_Bulletin_Board.xls

Update May 2, 2011: Document removed from site.

The website of the Department of Social Work at Saint Leo University (FL) includes an “Agency List,” apparently for the “field internship” required of social work students, including Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida, Tampa Planned Parenthood, and the All Women’s Health Center of North Tampa (at the website www.floridaabortion.com).

<http://faculty.saintleo.edu/socialwork/Agency.doc>

The Department of Public Affairs at Seattle University (WA) promotes internships with Planned Parenthood of Western Washington.

<http://www.seattleu.edu/artsci/publicaffairs/default.aspx?id=26486>

The June 2006 issue of Case Notes, published by the Seattle University School of Law (WA), announced 2006 grants by the University's Public Interest Law Foundation, which funds legal internships for Seattle University law students. The announcement stated that a 2006 grant recipient interned at Planned Parenthood of Washington.

<http://www.law.seattleu.edu/Documents/admission/newsletter/06june.pdf>

The Winter 2006-2007 issue of Lawyer, published by the Seattle University School of Law (WA), celebrated the work of the University's Public Interest Law Foundation, citing its funding for a student internship at Planned Parenthood of Western Washington.

<http://www.law.seattleu.edu/Documents/news/publications/lawyer/Winter2006Lawyer.pdf>

In May 2009, the Center for Professional Development at the Seattle University School of Law (WA) promoted a summer internship at Planned Parenthood of the Great Northwest.

<http://www.law.seattleu.edu/Documents/career/newsletter/2009.05.29.pdf>

The Public Interest Law Foundation at Seattle University School of Law (WA) lists recipients of summer grants, including students who worked at Planned Parenthood of Washington (2006), Georgians for Choice (2007) and Law Students for Reproductive Rights (2008).

<http://students.seattleu.edu/lawclubs/pilf/previousrecipients.html>

Update May 2, 2011: Page removed from site.

The Women's Gender and Studies Program at the University of Dayton (OH) identifies "placement opportunities" for student "service learning" including Planned Parenthood.

<http://academic.udayton.edu/WomensStudies/October%2030th/academic%20pages/place%20ment%20oppurtunities.htm>

Job Referrals

The Bellarmino University (KY) Career Center recruited male students to work as a "Kentucky Peer Educator" for Planned Parenthood Kentucky in October 2008. According to the position description on the Bellarmine website, Planned Parenthood sought high school and college students to be "peer educators" to "present on topics related to reproductive and sexual health" and "help other teens make responsible choices."

http://www.bellarmino.edu/studentaffairs/careercenter/careers/career_details.asp?id=35722

The Boston College (MA) Career Center website titled "What Are Alumni Doing with Your Major?" highlights a 1995 sociology major who is a Clinical Operations Assistant at Planned Parenthood of Connecticut.

<http://www.bc.edu/offices/careers/careers/major/majoralumni.html>

The November 2 and November 9, 2009, issues of the GSB Insider, published by the Graduate School of Business at Fordham University (NY), included job postings for a full-time financial analyst at International Planned Parenthood Federation/Western Hemisphere Region.

<http://www.bnet.fordham.edu/enews/student/nov0909/index.html>

<http://www.bnet.fordham.edu/enews/student/nov0209/index.html>

A January 2007 issue of CLAS Action, published by the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University (DC), included the announcement “Work for the International Division at Planned Parenthood Federation of America.” “The Program Officer facilitates the development, implementation, and long-term viability of PPFA’s client-centered international sexual and reproductive health and rights projects. Facilitates the improvement, quality, efficiency, and effectiveness of services and advocacy so that international partners in Latin America and the Caribbean can carry out their respective missions.”

<http://www12.georgetown.edu/sfs/news/index.cfm?NewsletterID=57&IssueID=618>

The Office of Public Interest and Community Service at Georgetown University Law Center (DC) lists employers that collected student resumes through the 2010 Georgetown/GW Law Public Sector Recruiting Program including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, the National Women’s Law Center and People for the American Way.

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/opics/PublicSectorRecruitingProgram.htm2010PSRPEmployers.htm>

Update May 2, 2011: Planned Parenthood is no longer mentioned on this webpage.

The Nonprofit Administration Program at John Carroll University (OH) lists “Employment-Job Opportunities” including a February 7, 2011, listing for Development Manager at Planned Parenthood of Northeast Ohio.

<http://www.jcu.edu/nonprofit/StudentResources/Employment.htm>

Update May 5, 2011: File also appears here:

<http://www.jcu.edu/psychology/people/vost/Careers%20for%20Social%20Psych.ppt>.

The website of the Psychology Department at John Carroll University (OH) includes a presentation on “Alternative Careers for Social Psychologists,” including Planned Parenthood.

Update May 5, 2011: This file is no longer at this location.

<http://www.jcu.edu/PSYCHOLOGY/Careers%2520for%2520Social%2520Psych.ppt>

The 2009 handbook for the Office of Career Services at Loyola University Chicago School of Law (IL) provided a sample resume including work experience at Planned Parenthood of Georgia.

http://www.luc.edu/law/career/pdfs/2009_1L_Handbook.pdf

The Social Work/Sociology Department at Mercyhurst College (PA) highlights alumni in “challenging careers” including “Community Health Educator, Planned Parenthood Hudson Peconic, Suffolk County, N.Y.”

<http://soc.mercyhurst.edu/alumni/>

Update May 2, 2011: Page removed from site.

The Career Development office at St. Catherine University (MN) offers a list of potential employers for Library and Information Science students, including the Planned Parenthood Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota Action Fund.

<http://www.stkate.edu/~mlisweb/current/jobgov.php>

The website of St. Mary's College (IN) includes a "Survey of Career Options of Women's Studies Alumnae" dated June 2006, including "Planned Parenthood Counselor."

<http://www3.saintmarys.edu/files/SurveyofCareerOptionsofWomensStudiesAlumnae.pdf>

The Kalmanovitz School of Education at St. Mary's College of California (CA) offers a list of websites for job seekers, including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/academics/schools/school-of-education/admissions/docs/JobWebsitesupdateShareeverytime_001.pdf

<http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/academics/schools/school-of-education/docs/job-websites.pdf>

The "Book of Majors," published by Stonehill College (MA) in 2005, offers a list of "Career Opportunities for Gender Studies Minors" including "Planned Parenthood Counselor."

<http://www.stonehill.edu/Documents/Academic%20Services/Book%20of%20Majors-pdf.pdf>

Update May 2, 2011: Planned Parenthood is no longer mentioned on this webpage.

A flyer on the website for the Women's Gender and Studies Program at the University of Dayton (OH) asks "What can I do with this degree?" with suggestions including Planned Parenthood.

<http://careers.udayton.edu/student/Majors/pdf/womenstudies.pdf>

Update May 5, 2011: Page also appears here:

<http://www.sandiego.edu/careers/resources/online/international.php>

Career Services at the University of San Diego (CA) refers students to website links for international nonprofits including the International Planned Parenthood Federation, the Alan Guttmacher Institute, Population Action International, the Population Council, the Population Institute and Population Connection.

Update May 5, 2011: This page is no longer at this location.

<http://www.sandiego.edu/careers/onlineresources/International/nonprofit.php>

The Career Services Center at the University of San Francisco (CA) recommends "Career Field Resources" including Planned Parenthood.

http://www.usfca.edu/CSC/Students/Career_Field_Resources/

Faculty, Staff, Leaders

When Carlow University (PA) named Carol Caliendo dean of the College of Professional Studies in September 2005, the University cited her credentials as a former nurse practitioner/nurse midwife for Planned Parenthood of Western Pennsylvania. Caliendo is no longer dean but remains on the nursing faculty.

<http://www2.carlow.edu/news/pressreleases/prdetails.cfm?recordID=91>

The online C.V. for Denise Nitterhouse, Associate Professor in the School of Accountancy and Management Information Systems at DePaul University (IL), touts her experience as accountant for the Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut in the 1970s.

<http://accountancy.depaul.edu/docs/cvs/Nitterhouse.pdf>

In March 2007, according to notes of the Faculty Council of DePaul University (IL), the Council voted to “register concern” about the president’s rejection of a commencement speaker, Barbara Ehrenreich, who “is on the board of Planned Parenthood” and was “wholeheartedly supported by the faculty.” The president, Father Denis Holtschneider, reportedly responded by offering “to bring Barbara Ehrenreich to campus for a public talk.” In an April 2007 meeting with the Faculty Council, the president reportedly explained that in fact two proposed commencement speakers had been rejected, Ehrenreich and one who “had taken very public position on abortion.” He reportedly assured faculty “that his decision poses no limit on hiring persons with a variety of positions on social issues.”

http://oaa.depaul.edu/_content/what/documents/FCMinutes07March2007.pdf

http://oaa.depaul.edu/_content/what/documents/FCMinutes04April2007.pdf

Zoe Segal-Reichlin, Adjunct Professor of Law at Georgetown University Law Center (DC), is described in her faculty profile as Associate General Counsel of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

http://www.law.georgetown.edu/faculty/facinfo/tab_faculty.cfm?Status=Faculty&ID=2385

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/Faculty/FacInfo/list.cfm?Type=JDAdjunct&Letter=S>

The online C.V. for Gary Lewis Filerman, Chairman of the Department of Health Services Administration at Georgetown University (DC) from 2000 to 2008, touts his experience on the board of directors of Planned Parenthood of Metropolitan Washington from 1986 to 1992 (and as president from 1990 to 1991), and as Vice President for International Development for the Planned Parenthood Federation of America from 1993 to 1996.

<http://www18.georgetown.edu/data/people/glf3/cv.doc>

The online profile of Jaime Dahlstedt, Teaching Fellow for the Domestic Violence Clinic at Georgetown University Law Center (DC), notes that he has “volunteered and taught classes at Planned Parenthood.”

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/clinics/sdc/staff.html>

Gonzaga University (WA) highlights the credentials of a member of the Board of Regents, including her service on the Board of Planned Parenthood.

<http://www.gonzaga.edu/Campus-Resources/University-Administration/Regents/KarenSayre.asp>

Gonzaga University School of Law (WA) faculty “service to charitable organizations” in 2008-09 included Planned Parenthood Inland Northwest and Planned Parenthood Votes Washington.

http://www.law.gonzaga.edu/Faculty/Files/public_service/FACULTY_PUBLIC SERVICE CONTRIBUTORS_2009.pdf

The online C.V. for Judith Ginsberg Wittner, Professor of Sociology at Loyola University Chicago (IL), notes a 2005 presentation: “Invited speaker, Planned Parenthood and the College of Charleston. Jane and the Women’s Liberation Abortion Collective.” It also lists a 1978 paper, “‘Determining Metropolitan Area Contraceptive Services for Adolescents: The Telephone Survey’ in The Analysis of Adolescent Fertility in a Metropolitan Area: The Chicago Experience. Planned Parenthood Association, Training and Research Center, Chicago.”

http://www.luc.edu/curl/pdfs/cv-judith_wittner.pdf

The online bio of Kellie Grengs, Costume Director and Assistant Professor of Theatre Arts and Dance at Loyola University New Orleans (LA), says that she volunteers at Planned Parenthood.

<http://cmfa.loyno.edu/theatre/profiles/kellie-grengs>

The online C.V. for Christine C. George, Senior Research Fellow in the Center for Urban Research and Learning at Loyola University Chicago (IL), notes that she was an Organizational Consultant for Planned Parenthood Midwest Region.

http://www.luc.edu/curl/pdfs/cv-christine_george.pdf

The online profile for Tracey Letmate, Adjunct Professor at Marylhurst University (OR), touts that she is currently the Organizational Effectiveness Manager for Planned Parenthood Columbia Willamette. “In this role, she oversees all of the clinical training and professional development of the 200-employee agency. In addition, she is responsible for the performance management system, FMLA tracking, and policy development/implementation.”

<http://onlinedegrees.marylhurst.edu/realestate/tracey-letmate/>

<http://onlinedegrees.marylhurst.edu/business/tracey-letmate/>

A February 2009 news article from St. Bonaventure University (NY) touted the credentials of a member of the University’s Board of Trustees, including her past experience on the board of Planned Parenthood of Western New York.

http://www.sbu.edu/About_SBU.aspx?id=21932

Graduate and Professional Studies at St. Joseph’s College of Maine (ME) highlights the credentials of instructors teaching the “Professional Paper” course, including Lois Hamel whose experience includes “Adult Nurse Practitioner, Planned Parenthood of Northern New England, Portland, ME.”

<http://catalog.sjcme.edu/mime/download.?catoid=13&ftype=3&foid=645>

Update May 2, 2011: Document removed from site

“Beyond the Classroom: Men and Women for Others, A Celebration of SLU Service and Outreach 2007,” a publication of Saint Louis University (MO), “celebrates the many ways in which faculty, staff, and students were involved in outreach and service of others throughout the year” with organizations including Planned Parenthood and NARAL Pro-Choice America.

http://www.slu.edu/Documents/provost/Beyond_the_Classroom.pdf

The online profile of Shawny Anderson, Associate Dean of Liberal Arts and Associate Professor at St. Mary's College of California (CA), touts her 1992 award from the Share It Now Foundation for “continuing social and political service for the completion of the ‘Choice’ project to benefit Planned Parenthood.”

<http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/faculty-and-staff/faculty-detail.html?fac=13&pg=scholarship>

The online profile for Debbi Lewang, Adjunct Professor of Financial Management for Arts Leaders at Seattle University (WA), touts her past work at Planned Parenthood of Western Washington.

<http://www.seattleu.edu/artsci/finearts/Default.aspx?id=52990>

During the 2006-07 academic year, the Seattle University School of Law (WA) employed Helen P. Howell as Distinguished Practitioner in Residence, touting her experience as former Vice President for Public Policy of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

<http://www.law.seattleu.edu/documents/cle/archive/presidentialpowers/schedule.pdf>

The Fall 2005 issue of Academically Speaking, published by Siena College (NY), celebrated the selection of Tanya Melich as Woodrow Wilson Visiting Fellow. Described as “one of the founders of the modern women’s political movement,” the newsletter said she “serves on the NYC Planned Parenthood Board of Advocates and its PAC.”

<http://www.siena.edu/uploadedFiles/Home/Academics/Academically%20Speaking%20Newsletter%20Fall%202006.pdf>

The online profile for Diane Tobin, Associate Professor of Communication at Spalding University (KY), touts her credentials including having served on the board of Planned Parenthood.

<http://www.spalding.edu/academics/communication/faculty/>

The online C.V. for J. Douglas Archer, Librarian at the University of Notre Dame (IN), lists his lectures including “Birds, Bees and Banned Books” in September 2009 for Planned Parenthood of Indiana’s Young Leaders Power Lunch Series.

<http://www.nd.edu/~jarcher/CV.pdf>

The online C.V. for Dianne Pinderhughes, Presidential Faculty Fellow and Professor of Africana Studies at the University of Notre Dame (IN), touts her service on the Local Advisory Council of Planned Parenthood of Champaign.

http://rooneycenter.nd.edu/assets/14959/pinderhughes_cv.pdf

Update May 2, 2011: Planned Parenthood, the National Organization for Women, and the National Abortion Rights Action League are no longer mentioned on this webpage.

The online C.V. for Dr. Jeffrey Gauthier, Associate Professor of Philosophy at the University of Portland (OR), touts his “affiliations” including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, the National Organization for Women and the National Abortion Rights Action League.

<http://college.up.edu/showimage/show.aspx?file=6645>

Update May 2, 2011: Page removed from site.

The online profile of Jennifer Oliphant, Adjunct Professor of Health and Human Performance at the University of St. Thomas (MN), touts her experience as “health educator with Planned Parenthood of Minnesota/South Dakota.”

<https://www.stthomas.edu/hhp/faculty/jaoliphant.htm>

Online profiles of Kathy Shadle James, Associate Professor of Nursing at the University of San Diego (CA), tout her “certification in Women’s Health through a joint program with the University of California, San Francisco and Planned Parenthood.”

<http://www.sandiego.edu/academics/nursing/ksj.php>

<http://www.sandiego.edu/academics/nursing/pdf/James2004.pdf>

<http://www.sandiego.edu/academics/nursing/pdf/James2009.pdf>

Campus Clubs & Events

Aquinas College (MI) hosted a video screening on male bullying, co-sponsored by Planned Parenthood, the Grand Rapids Chapter of the National Organization for Women, the College’s Women’s Studies Center and Men’s Resource Center, and other organizations in October 2003.

<http://www.aquinas.edu/collegerelations/display.html?id=124>

Volunteers in the 4Boston student organization at Boston College (MA) assist the Roxbury Youth Program, including a Planned Parenthood workshop for middle and high school teens.

http://www.bc.edu/bc_org/svp/st_org/4boston/ryp.html

Among the web links promoted online by the Global Justice Project, a Boston College (MA) student group, are links to Planned Parenthood, the National Organization for Women, and Save Roe. The same web links are promoted in the group’s booklet “Freshman Disorientation,” which is published on the Boston College website. The booklet includes a photo of Global Justice Project members at the pro-abortion “March for Women’s Lives.”

http://www.bc.edu/bc_org/avp/cas/soc/Justice/links.html

http://www.bc.edu/bc_org/avp/cas/soc/Justice/fdi.pdf

The College of the Holy Cross (MA) refused to abide by Worcester Bishop Robert McManus’ request that it cancel an October 2008 campus event on teen pregnancy involving Planned Parenthood and NARAL.

<http://www.holycross.edu/departments/publicaffairs/hcm/winter08/news/news6.html>

Law Students for Reproductive Justice, a student organization at Fordham University School of Law (NY), states on the Fordham website: “Our projects include brownbags with reproductive rights activists, an ongoing escort program in partnership with Planned Parenthood of New York City, a research partnership with local pro-choice legal organizations, and internship opportunities.”

<http://law.fordham.edu/student-groups/11142.htm>

The Fall 2007-Winter 2008 issue of Outreach, published by the Women’s Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program at Georgetown University Law Center (DC), highlighted the Program’s activities including a “Women’s Reproductive Health” colloquium including Mimi Liu of Planned Parenthood and Jill Morrison (an alumna of the Program) from the pro-abortion National Women’s Law Center.

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/documents/WLPPFPNewsletterFall-Winter08.pdf>

The Fall 2006-Winter 2007 issue of Outreach, published by the Women’s Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program at Georgetown University Law Center (DC), highlighted the Program’s activities including a “Women’s Rights in Action” seminar including Helene Krasnoff, staff attorney with the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/documents/FallWinter2006.pdf>

The faculty handbook for the Women’s Studies Program at Loyola University Chicago (IL) dated Fall 2005, includes a general yearly calendar, including the following program for February: “Performance of Eve Ensler’s Vagina Monologues to promote awareness of, and to raise funds to combat, violence against women. The play is accompanied by a daylong ‘Vagina Festival,’ which includes tables and information from rape victim support centers and Planned Parenthood, and of course, Radical Cheerleading.”

http://www.luc.edu/womenstudies/pdfs/facultyhandbook_fall05.pdf

According to the March 2008 issue of Voices..., published by the Center for Women in Church and Society at Our Lady of the Lake University (TX), students, faculty and staff joined the International Women’s March in San Antonio to advocate issues including “pro-choice rights.” The event was co-sponsored by Planned Parenthood. University groups reportedly represented at the march included Encuentros de Mujeres, the Center for Service Learning and Volunteerism, the Center for Women and the Alliance.

http://www.ollusa.edu/s/346/images/editor_documents/CWCS/CWCS%20March%202008%20Newsletter.pdf

Update May 2, 2011: Planned Parenthood support rally is no longer mentioned on this webpage.

The COMM Club at the St. Catherine University (MN), intended for communications majors and minors, announced in April 2007 plans for a “Planned Parenthood support rally” at the Highland Park Planned Parenthood.

<http://minerva.stkate.edu/theupdate.nsf/pages/D310E0D6A6FD8137862572B3000C94B4>

The website for St. Mary's College (IN) highlights “important and influential” artists who have spoken to students as part of the Margaret Hill Endowed Visiting Artist Series, including actress Camryn Manheim whose “social activism” is highlighted including work with Planned Parenthood.

<http://www3.saintmarys.edu/departments/communication-studies-dance-theatre/theatre/margaret-hill-endowed-visiting-artist-series>

The January 27, 2011, and February 4, 2011, issues of “GeNDeR Studies Announcements,” published by the Gender Studies Program at the University of Notre Dame (IN), encouraged students to participate in panel discussions on “choice” and “reproductive justice” at the “Voices for Reproductive Justice” conference. The event was cosponsored by Planned Parenthood of Indiana (PPIN), PPIN’s Fort Wayne Community Action Board, Friends of PPIN, and the Indiana Religious Coalition for Reproductive Choice.

http://genderstudies.nd.edu/assets/35881/gsa_012711.pdf
http://genderstudies.nd.edu/assets/36309/gsa_020411.pdf

For a March 2006 “Distinguished Lecture” at the Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice of the University of San Diego (CA), the Institute highlighted the credentials of Dr. William F. Schulz, Executive Director of Amnesty International USA, including his service on the boards of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America and People for the American Way.

<http://www.sandiego.edu/peacestudies/documents/ipj/Programs/DLS/SchulzPDFBook.pdf>

One of the speakers at “Bioneers 2010,” an October 2010 conference at Xavier University (OH) and co-sponsored by the University, was Gloria Feldt, who is touted in the conference program as “former president of Planned Parenthood Federation of America.” “Feldt shares her personal journey from timid teen to nationally prominent women’s rights leader.”

<http://www.xavier.edu/dialogue/documents/BioneersProgram.pdf>

Academic Activities & Referrals

Update May 2, 2011: Document removed from site.

Adjunct Professor Connie Griffin is identified as teaching the “Introduction to Feminisms” course—a required course for the Women’s and Gender Studies minor—at Boston College (MA). Her Fall 2006 curriculum for the course, posted on the College website, used resources heavily skewed to radical feminism. On the topic of the “women’s health movement,” students were required to read Planned Parenthood materials including “Bush Administration Record on Reproductive Rights,” “War on Women,” and “The Facts Speak Louder than Silent Scream.” Included among a long list of recommended websites—nearly all contrary to Catholic moral teaching—were the sites for pro-abortion organizations including Planned Parenthood, Catholics for Choice, NARAL, National Organization for Women, Republicans for Choice, and Religious Coalition for Reproductive Choice.

<http://www.bc.edu/schools/cas/ws/meta-elements/doc/intro.doc>

<http://www.bc.edu/schools/cas/ws/faculty.html>

<https://www2.bc.edu/connie-griffin/bio.html>

On the website of the Juvenile Rights Project at Boston College Law School (MA) is “Consent to Medical Treatment by Minors in Massachusetts: A Guide for Practitioners,” which advises doctors on minors’ legal rights to obtain family planning services and abortions. The guide offers a list of family planning providers in Massachusetts, including the Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts.

http://www.bc.edu/schools/law/jrap/meta-elements/pdf/jrap_medical_consent.pdf

The Latino Nonprofit Leadership Program (LNLP) of the Stritch Leadership Center at Cardinal Stritch University (WI) helped develop leaders of Latino-serving nonprofit organizations to promote “social change” and improve “the quality of life to the community at large.” The program served a Planned Parenthood employee in 2005 and then two employees of Planned Parenthood of Wisconsin in 2007. The university no longer collaborates in the program.

http://www.stritch.edu/uploadedFiles/Community_Ties/Leadership_Center/Class%20of%202007.pdf

http://www.stritch.edu/uploadedFiles/Community_Ties/Leadership_Center/Class%20of%202005.pdf

After the president of Carroll College (MT) prevented a Planned Parenthood representative from speaking at the College in September 2005, a professor teaching human and animal reproduction reportedly got approval to invite a Planned Parenthood representative to speak to his class. According to a student, the representative discussed “reproductive health” and “birth control.”

<https://www.carroll.edu/students/studentlife/voices.php?id=4091>

Update May 2, 2011: Pages removed from site.

Multimedia presentations developed by communication arts students at the College of New Rochelle (NY)—and posted to the College’s website—advocated abortion and contraceptives, based upon Planned Parenthood materials.

<http://www2.cnr.edu/home/sas/commarts/storytelling/spring07/shamara/Home%20Page.html>

<http://www2.cnr.edu/home/sas/commarts/storytelling/fall05/Janey/yourmethod.html>

<http://www2.cnr.edu/home/sas/commarts/storytelling/spring03/joanna/page2.html>

On the DePaul University (IL) website is a student’s homework assignment—a proposal for a website on family planning, “somewhat along the lines of what Planned Parenthood is about.” The developed site, titled SafeSex.org, refers viewers to a Planned Parenthood interactive game on teen sexuality and the Planned Parenthood “Congressional Day of Action” to lobby for “reproductive freedom.”

<http://shrike.depaul.edu/~eeissler/hw2.htm>

<http://shrike.depaul.edu/~eeissler/safesex/safesex.html>

DePaul University (IL) highlights exemplary learning plans for its Master of Arts in Applied Professional Studies, including “Organizing and empowering marginalized women to mobilize and influence systematic changes around reproductive justice” by the then-executive director of the Chicago Abortion Fund. The learning plan proposed research on “diversity within the ranks of the primary pro-choice organizations (ACLU, Planned Parenthood, NARAL, NOW).”

<http://snl.depaul.edu/writing/GTA%20part%203%20Grad%20%20Learning%20Plan%20SNL%20Website.pdf>

The Nonprofit Leadership Institute at Duquesne University (PA) matches prospective board members with nonprofit organizations including Planned Parenthood, according to a 2007 newsletter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals.

http://www.duq.edu/nli/pdf/AFP_Website_08.2007.pdf

The Center for Intercultural Education and Development at Georgetown University (DC) conducts a program with Georgetown’s Kennedy Institute of Ethics on “bioethics and population policies in the United States” for Chinese government officials. “These five-day programs contain academic sessions on issues such as the Impact of Population Development on Society, Clinical Ethics, The Impact of HIV/AIDS on Population, Reproductive Health and Sex Education, etc. CIED also arranges professional site visits to entities such as Population Reference Bureau, Whitman-Walker Clinic, National Institute of Health, and Planned Parenthood to demonstrate the diversity of organizations involved in the population and bioethics issues.”

http://cied.georgetown.edu/executive_programs/programs.cfm

The Busse Library at Mount Mercy University (IA) offers a “desktop reference” page on Human Sexuality, with no reference to Catholic moral teaching but links to the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, the notorious Kinsey Institute, and other organizations opposed to Catholic teaching.

<http://www.mtmercy.edu/human-sexuality>

Library faculty of New York Medical College (NY), a “health sciences university in the Catholic tradition” sponsored by the Archdiocese of New York, compiled a list of web sites recommended to students in the Health Services Management and Policy Program of the School of Public Health. Under the heading “Family Planning/Reproduction” is the Planned Parenthood Federation of America and Planned Parenthood’s former research arm, The Alan Guttmacher Institute. Under “International Health” is recommended the Population Institute. The Planned Parenthood Federation of America and NARAL Pro-Choice America are recommended under “Women’s Health Issues.”

<http://library.nymc.edu/informatics/Smartstart2003.cfm>

The Women’s Studies faculty at Saint Louis University (MO) highlights students’ “Capstone Projects 1992-2009” including “Reproductive Health Services of Planned Parenthood” in 1997.

http://www.slu.edu/Documents/arts_sciences/womens_studies/capstone1x.pdf

The Master in Fine Arts in Creative Writing program at St. Mary's College of California (CA) offers the Vanessa Bedient and Molly Reidelberger Scholarship for Excellence in Poetry, which was named for a former director of Planned Parenthood in Santa Barbara.

<http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/academics/schools/school-of-liberal-arts/departments-programs/mfa-creative-writing/fellowships-and-internships.html>

Update May 2, 2011: Documents removed from site.

In her syllabi for the Winter 2009 and Spring 2010 course “Social Work Practice and Profession,” Dr. Jennifer Davis Berman, Professor of Social Work at the University of Dayton (OH), recommends agencies for students to interview including Planned Parenthood.

<http://academic.udayton.edu/JenniferDavisBerman/images/201sylW10mwf.docnewest.doc>
<http://academic.udayton.edu/JenniferDavisBerman/images/201sylW09mwf.doc>

The University of Detroit Mercy (MI) library recommends resources for research in “Women’s and Gender Studies” including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America and the National Organization for Women. It also recommends resources on “Reproductive Rights and Sexuality” including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Catholics for Choice, the Center for Reproductive Rights, NARAL Pro-Choice America, and several pro-contraception and pro-abortion texts.

http://research.udmercy.edu/find/by_discipline/career.php?discipline_id=60
http://research.udmercy.edu/find/by_discipline/subject_guides.php?discipline_id=60&list_id=295

The Women’s and Gender Studies program at the University of Detroit Mercy (MI) recommends “external sites of interest” including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, the Feminist Majority Foundation and the National Organization for Women.

<http://liberalarts.udmercy.edu/programs/special/wgs/links/index.htm>

WATCH, an organization of faculty at the University of Notre Dame (IN), recommends “useful websites for women faculty” including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, the Center for Reproductive Law and Policy, Emily’s List, the Feminist Majority Foundation, NARAL Pro-Choice America, and the National Organization for Women.

<http://www.nd.edu/~watch/appendices.htm>

Student & Alumni Recognition

A December 2006 edition of Graduate Studies News—published by Alverno College (WI) for master’s level students—congratulated a graduate student for accepting the position of Director of Education at Planned Parenthood of Wisconsin, explaining that she “will be responsible for overseeing content development and delivery related to sexuality education and reproductive health.”

<http://depts.alverno.edu/masters/pdf/2006/1201.PDF>

The April 2010 edition of Social Work Compass—published by the Barry University (FL) School of Social Work—celebrated the selection of alumnus Col. Michael Gauger as Social Worker of the Year by the National Association of Social Workers-Palm Beach Unit. “He said, ‘We noticed neighborhoods with a high ratio of pregnant girls, so we brought in Planned Parenthood to educate them.’ His unit also noticed many young girls who were drug addicts, prostituting themselves for money and drugs. There came a point when instead of arresting the girls, they would hand out condoms to prevent the spread of sexually transmitted diseases. He said, ‘You have to look at the big picture instead of the narrow view.’”

<http://www.barry.edu/socialwork/pdf/newsletter/April2010.pdf>

The Women’s and Gender Studies Program at DePaul University (IL) highlights certain alumni on its web pages, including a 2002 graduate who “while at DePaul” was involved with Planned Parenthood.

<http://las.depaul.edu/wms/People/Alumni/Profiles/KellyKelbel.asp>

“Theatre School News,” a newsletter of the Theatre School at DePaul University (IL), highlighted the accomplishments of alumni including a woman who “did a voiceover for Planned Parenthood” in the online video “How Pregnancy Happens” (<http://flickerlab.com/pregnancy/>) in multiple issues from November 2005 to June 2008.

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN11-11.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN11-10.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN11-9.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN11-3.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN10-11.pdf>

<https://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN10-8.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN10-7.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN10-6.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN10-5.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN10-4.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN10-3.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN10-1.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN9-11.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/tsn9-10.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN9-8.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN9-5.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN9-4.pdf>

<http://theatreschool.depaul.edu/pdf/tsn/TSN9-3.pdf>

The Summer 2010 issue of Fairfield Magazine at Fairfield University (CT) profiled the volunteer work of an alumna, including her work at Planned Parenthood while a Fairfield student.

<http://blog.fairfield.edu/magazine/?p=632>

The School of Continuing Studies at Georgetown University (DC) highlights the accomplishments of an alumna from the Journalism program, noting that her “political reporting has earned her top prizes, including awards from the National Women’s Political Caucus and from the Planned Parenthood Federation.”

<http://scs.georgetown.edu/departments/11/master-of-professional-studies-in-journalism/faculty-bio.cfm?a=a&fId=127790>

The Master of Science in Foreign Service program at Georgetown University (DC) highlights the accomplishments of an alumna including her post-graduate experience at Planned Parenthood.

<http://msfs.georgetown.edu/40216.html>

The Women’s Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program at Georgetown University Law Center (DC) profiles an alumna from the class of 2002-2003 who is Legislative Affairs Manager for the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. For her Fellowship with the Georgetown program, she “worked on initiatives to promote health insurance coverage for prescription contraceptives” at the National Women’s Law Center.

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/USProgram/Alumni/2002-03/IkeitaCantuHinojosa.html>

The Leadership and Advocacy for Women in Africa Fellowship Program at Georgetown University Law Center (DC) highlights the accomplishments of an alumna from the class of 1994-95 who volunteered for the Planned Parenthood Association of Ghana.

<http://www.law.georgetown.edu/wlppfp/LAWA/alumni/Premo.html>

The Winter 2004 issue of The Lamp, published by the Mount Carmel College of Nursing (OH), highlighted alumni accomplishments including a 2003 alumna who graduated from the Planned Parenthood Federation of America Women’s Health Nurse Practitioner Program.

<http://www.mccn.edu/pdf/Fall%2004%20Lamp%20for%20WEB.pdf>

In the Fall 2008 issue of the Courier, published by St. Mary’s College (IN), included news about alumni accomplishments including an alumna who is a Planned Parenthood volunteer.

<http://www3.saintmarys.edu/files/courier/issues/courier-08fall.pdf>

The Spring 2010 issue of Saint Mary’s Magazine, published by St. Mary’s College of California (CA), highlighted accomplishments of alumni including an alumna who “worked for Planned Parenthood for six years, starting as a medical assistant and then coordinating several programs in clinics.”

<http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/news-and-events/saint-marys-magazine/2010/spring/glimpses/2000-2008.html>

The Summer 2004 issue of Santa Clara Magazine, published by Santa Clara University (CA), highlighted accomplishments of alumni including an alumna who has been involved in a “leadership” role with Planned Parenthood.

<http://www.scu.edu/scm/summer2004/cn-graduate.cfm>

The Spring 2010 issue of Santa Clara Law, published by Santa Clara Law of Santa Clara University (CA), highlighted community service activity of alumni including an alumnus who served on a Planned Parenthood board.

<http://law.scu.edu/sclaw/spring-2010-private-practice.cfm>

The Seattle University (WA) website touts the experience of Edward Esparza, a graduate of the School's Master of Nonprofits Leadership program and member of the program's Visiting Committee, on the board of directors of Planned Parenthood of Central Washington.

<http://www.seattleu.edu/artsci/mnpl/inner.aspx?id=28936&langtype=1033>

Each year Seattle University (WA) selects nine freshmen to serve as "peer leaders" and receive four-year, full-tuition scholarships called the Sullivan Leadership Award. The University's profile for recipient Hannah Rolston cites her membership in Planned Parenthood's PEER (Peer Education Encourages Responsibility) group, which promotes contraception among teenagers.

<http://www.seattleu.edu/sullivan/scholar.aspx?id=32066>

The Seattle University School of Law (WA) website includes a 2009 news report on two students who were awarded full-tuition Scholars for Justice Awards for their dedication to social justice, citing one of the recipients' former experience as a "health care associate" for Planned Parenthood in Vermont.

<http://www.law.seattleu.edu/x6474.xml>

The June 2004 issue of The Talking Circle, published by the Department of Social Work at Siena College (NY), celebrated the accomplishments of alumni including an alumna who had served as a counselor at Planned Parenthood of Northeast New York.

<http://www.siena.edu/uploadedFiles/Home/Academics/TalkingCircle2004.pdf>

The Summer-Fall 2008 issue of The Ambassador, published by the University of Scranton (PA), highlighted alumni accomplishments including one alumna's internship at Planned Parenthood in Philadelphia.

<http://academic.scranton.edu/department/forlang/DN/ambassador-2008-fall.pdf>

Conclusion

The types of relationships between Catholic colleges and universities and Planned Parenthood that this report uncovers are scandalous in that they publicly undermine the Church and her fundamental teachings on the sanctity of life.

The Catholic faithful have a right to expect that those institutions recognized as being Catholic by the Church will uphold Church teachings.

We pray that Catholic colleges and universities will once and for all end the 50 year move toward secularization and embrace their special missions as Catholic institutions, which Pope John Paul II reminded us comes from the heart of the Church—Ex corde Ecclesiae.